Local IBM Plant Gears For Metric Take-Over

Basic Classes For Employees

The IBM Corporation has instituted a ten-year program to install the metric system as the company's basic measurement language in the design, manufacture, test and service of their products.

Greencastle Plant Manager Bill Long stated the local operation has already started the education of their employees. "Actually IBM has been dual-dimensioning prints and specifications since 1966. But since the two measurement systems don't exactly translate, there is a need to have all IBMers speak the same measurement language. We plan to concentrate on educating our people most directly involved first, and eventually everyone at IBM Greencastle will be involved in the Metric Education Program. Basically we expect our employees to learn the metric system by using it. It will be to their advantage since legislation is pending which will phase out the inch system by the mid-1980's. Our daily lives will all be affected by the metric system."

IBM will begin implementation of the new program immediately, according to company representatives. "We plan to do it on a cost avoidance basis to provide maximum benefits. First we must establish a base (1972-74) by developing conversion tables, standards manuals, catalogs, etc. Next we will implement metric design in new products (1974-76). It will not be retroactive to old products. Then carrying new products from design through test and manufacture, we will be converting along the way. We would then expect a gradual transition to take place (1978-82) until the 'inch' system is gradually phased out of product use."

"We are not trying to change the rest of the country," said Wallace C. Doud, IBM vice president, commercial and industry relations. "Our prime objective is to do things more efficiently within the IBM company and with the U.S. apparently headed toward the metric system we would hope to be leaders in something we think will benefit the nation."

The proposed legislation calls for a conversion by all industry. In 1971 the National Bureau of Standards (NBS) reported to Congress the results of a three-year U.S. Metric Study, in which thousands of individuals, firms, and other organizations participated. The main conclusion was that Congress should sponsor a coordinated program for metricating the U.S. over a ten-year period. The results of the NBS survey and the reasoning that led to the conclusion that metrication would greatly benefit the country were published in a book: "A Metric America, A decision whose time has come." The U.S. study has been well received and it appears likely that Congress will act upon it before 1975, according to L. John Rankine, IBM director of standards.

The IBM program is related strictly to their own products. By way of example, they would gradually require that vendors supply them in metric with those things they need to develop and manufacture their products, but they would not require that their buildings and office furniture be in metric unless that industry has converted. IBM does not feel they will be imposing a hardship on vendors by forcing them to use two measurement systems. According to Long, IBM has been dual dimensioning since 1966 and a vendor can work to either specification. In addition, they plan to treat metrication as they would a new technology and assist the vendors doing business with them.

A large number of IBM employees, especially the professionals, are already working with the metric system, said Long. "We will have available basic orientation education packages and there will be in-depth training for specialized requirements. We expect our employees to learn the metric system by using it. Each employee will be taught as much as he needs to do his job."

Long said IBM will supply each employee metric tools needed on the job. In cases where an employee is expected to maintain special tools, such as in tool making, these tools would also be furnished.

Two Accidents Cited

The Greencastle city police were called to the scene of an accident which occurred Thursday at 5 p.m. in the A&P parking lot. According to the report, a 1968 Mercury driven by Crystal H. Berry, 40, of 735 East Washington struck the front end of a parked car while attempting to enter a parking space. The owner of the second car is Michael L. Rickey of Buffalo, Indiana. No estimate of damage to either vehicle was reported. A complete report was not made since the accident occurred on private property.

An accident at 1:15 p.m. Friday at the corner of Bloomington and Hanna Streets was investigated by the city police. The vehicles involved was a 193 Pontiac

Erickson To DePauw

Mr. Dave Erickson from Scarritt College in Nashville, Tennessee will be on the campus of DePauw University on October 31 from 1:30 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. He will be in the office of the Chaplain. He will be available to speak to interested students about careers in church work. Mr. Erickson will be discussing the major offerings at Scarritt in religion, Christian education, drama, behavioral science, church and community work, and evangelism.

Scarritt College is a senior college and graduate school of The United Methodist Church designed for the education of lay workers. Its graduates serve the church in every state of the union and in fifty-nine foreign countries. Graduates from Scarritt are in great demand in the church. Members of last year's class received between five and thirty job offers upon graduation.

Those interested in discussing full-time careers should contact Mr. Erickson when he is on campus.

expect it to be very expensive to replace "inch" scale capital equipment with metric scale equipment. Capital equipment will stay on normal replacement schedules, said Long. Metric conversion kits are available for many machines. Other large expense machines will be run with the aid of conversion tables until they wear out. Each machine will then be replaced by one that is graduated in metrics.

World Trade people especially regard the "customary" system as

"archaic" and "highly inconvenient," since they do business in an almost exclusively metric world. Say L.L. Horn, vice president-technical, IBM World Trade Corporation: "The international corporation is dependent on the free exchange of raw materials, manufactured products, even technological ideas. The competitive disadvantage of using different standards and measurements is obvious."

Ballots Cast By Local Members

Members of local #772 of the Communications Workers of America (CWA) met Friday morning at the Commercial Hotel to vote on the proposed contract with General Telephone Company of Indiana (GTE).

Harvey Ford, president of the Greencastle local, said secret ballots were cast this morning by the membership. All the votes will be tallied Sunday afternoon statewide.

The tentative agreement between the CWA and GTE which was reached Wednesday afternoon would provide substantial wage and benefit increases, said Tom Merritt, southwestern division manager of GTE in Terre Haute.

He said that, as part of the agreement, he could make no further comments on the provisions.

The agreement must be ratified or rejected by October 1. If ratified, it will mean considerable progress on money items compared to the Bell Systems, said Ford. He said workers will be back at work Monday morning if ratification is acknowledged Sunday, as he hopes it will be.

Putnam county girls may be interested in learning that the "500" Festival announced today that applications are now being accepted for the 1974 "500" Festival Queen's Pageant.

To be eligible, girls must be between the ages of 19 and 22, single, a legal resident of Indiana and whose parents are also legal residents of the state. Applicants must be attending an accredited Indiana college, university or school offering college type courses and taking at least 12 academic hours.

It was also announced that the method of selection of contestants has been changed this year. In the past the first judging was based on photographs only. This year each applicant, who is duly qualified, will be asked to appear before a panel of judges. Thirty-three young

Loan Approved

Seventh District Congressman John Myers announced today the approval of a $499,000 loan to the REM utilities district of Western Indiana for the construction of 44 miles of line to serve 600 additional customers.

Congressman Myers said the loan will be made by the Rural Electrification Administration. The REMC utility with office in Bloomfield serves Green, Clay, Monroe, Owen, Putnam, Sullivan, Daviess, Lawrence and Martin Counties.

Traffic has been interrupted this week-end due to some major work on the city's streets. Walnut Street received a face-lift Friday, as the crews of McMahan and O'Connor Construction of Rochester repaved the road. Sunset Drive is the remaining major work for this fall. "We've been trying to pick out the roads that needed repairs the most," said Mayor Fisher.

Eitel's Open House Set

Open house to mark the recent renovation of a 65-year-old Greencastle floral firm, Eitel Flowers, will be held next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 4, 5, and 6, according to owner Ken Eitel, Sr.

Eitel Flowers, 17 S. Vine St., was one of the first local business places in the city to be renovated under an Uplift program sponsored by the Greencastle Chamber of Commerce.

Added to the local establishment are 1,600 square feet of make-up room and 1,600 square feet of storage area as well as an additional 300 square feet for display of artificial flowers and plants. "These additions will increase our ability to make savings which we can pass on to the customer," Eitel said.

Open house has been scheduled for 7 to 9 p.m. Oct. 4, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Oct. 5 and 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Oct. 6. Ten prizes, totalling $500 will be given during the three-day affair.

Present next Friday and Saturday will be Paul Penzel, Field Executive of Transworld Delivery, who will tell how FTD operates and will explain five new flower arrangements for FTD. Eitel has been certified with FTD for more than 50 years. In addition to Penzel, regional and district officials of FTD, as well as executives from suppliers are expected for the open house.

Eitel was opened in Greencastle in 1908 by the present owner's grandfather, John Eitel and his father, Jacob Eitel. Ken Eitel began working for the firm in 1928 on a part time basis. After studying floriculture in Purdue and a year's garden school in Germany, he has been with the organization since 1938.

"My employees and myself represent 100 years of floral experience," Ken Eitel said. Jack Flint has been on the staff since 1953. Our staff consists of six regulars but can be increased to 18 at peak times. Some of those employed are enrolled in on-the-job training.

Associated with Ken Eitel is his wife, Elizabeth. They have two children, Ken Eitel, Jr., an employee of Horace Link & Co. and Joanna Eitel, an employee of the telephone Co.

WOULD HAVE VOTED AGAINST IT

Wiley Raps Prime Time Rule

A former general counsel of the Federal Communications Commission, now an FCC member, said Friday he would have voted against the prime time access rule had he been on the commission at the time.

The rule requires networks to provide local stations one-half hour during prime time for programming by the individual stations.

The FCC member, Richard E. Wiley, was on the DePauw University campus here for an address.

He was asked about the prime time access rule at a news conference preceding the speech.

Wiley said in terms of the original intent of the FCC, that of bringing diversity of programming, the rule has not worked out well at all. He said game shows and old reruns have taken up that half-hour time slot.

He said had he been on the commission when the prime access rule was passed, he would have voted against it as "an unwarranted government-tal intrusion into the marketplace."

He said he has proposed some modifications to the commission, adding that he is not certain there is a majority vote on the commission now to repeal the rule.

On the freedom of broadcast journalism, Wiley said there is a basic distinction between broadcast and newspaper journalism. Broadcasting, he said, is "part of a scarce national resource," meaning the airwaves.

Federal regulation is required to use that resource and the stations must comply technically with the requirements and the public interest, he said.

Newspapers don't have the same obligation, Wiley said.

Asked if the fairness doctrine, equal time, and similar broadcast regulations weren't restrictions of the First Amendment, he said they can be seen that way. But when properly construed by federal agencies so as not to interfere with the rights of the individual stations, there is no restriction of the First Amendment, he said.

He was asked if there could be misuse of this power of the FCC to regulate. Wiley said any time there is power there is a chance of misuse. But the U.S. Supreme Court has said in reviewing the FCC power that calculated risks and delicate balances are always a part of a democratic process, he said.

He also was asked if he felt the networks were involved in the misuse of the airwaves or any unfair practices. He said in his own view there has been "no showing of a pattern of consistent bias or distortion or unfairness." Had there been, he said, the FCC would have taken some action.

Over-all programming has not revealed any bias on the networks, he said.

In response to another question, he said he is not certain bias in the press is something for a licensing agency like the FCC to judge.

Wiley said it is not to the government's business to get into the journalistic process other than the fairness doctrine.

"The FCC cannot be the national arbiter of truth, morals and justice," he said. Its job is to make sure the broadcasting stations serve the public interest.

Who's News

In a ceremony in Harrison, Arkansas, this month, Lloyd S. Vaughn, well known Greencastle man, a member of Boone Lodge No. 314, F. & A. M., received a 50-year Masonic membership pin and card from Deputy District Grand Master Champ Ruble, acting as a personal representative of the Most Worshipful M. C. Lewis, Jr. Grand Master, F. & A. M. of Arkansas.

Martha Ann Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Thomas Smith of Edgelea Drive, has completed an orientation session at Northwood Institute in West Baden, Indiana. She is now attending regular classes, majoring in business management.

Northwood is a private, non-profit, coeducational college which emphasizes four business curriculums. They are fashion merchandising, business management, hotel and restaurant management, and automotive marketing. A one-year course in culinary arts is also available, as is an associate degree program in general education.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 33 and I am 26. We've been married for four years, and have always had a fulfilling marriage. We are both very attractive people.

Our sex life lacks nothing, and, I should add, I am very broad-minded and don't mind doing whatever it takes to please my husband.

The problem is, the more I do the things he wants, the kinkier he gets. Now he wants to get into group sex. He keeps bringing these people over who are into that sort of thing, and they're trying to get me involved in it.

Abby, I would do practically anything to please my husband, but this group thing turns me off. He is very persistent, and says I shouldn't knock anything I haven't tried.

How do you feel about this? No name or town, please.

OLD-FASHIONED GIRL

DEAR GIRL: To me, the sexual expression of love is a beautiful, private thing between two people. Using sex to achieve the ultimate in a "thrill," which could conceivably include the whole neighborhood, is for animals.

I'll not only knock group sex, I'll knock wood against its becoming a popular national pastime.

DEAR ABBY: You recently chided Roy Rosenberg for reporting that years ago a 40-year-old sheepherder in Wyoming married a 10-year-old girl, saying: "Aw, come on, 10-year-olds aren't permitted to marry in the U.S.A."

I am enclosing a newspaper clipping, dated February 1, 1937, showing a "bashful" bride, age 9, and her 22-year-old Tennessee mountaineer husband! The bride's parents were all for it, and in those days it was apparently legal.

SPARTA, ILL., READER

DEAR READER: I am informed by Doris, Sen. Howard Baker's secretary, that in order to obtain a Tennessee marriage license today, the applicants must be 18 (without parental consent) and 16 with! But in cases where the applicants lie about their ages, if the parents do not contest it, the couple are considered married. For another defender of Roy, read on:

DEAR ABBY: In 1903, when I was six years old, we lived in the little coal-mining town of Wofford, Kentucky. My 8-year-old sister's favorite playmate was a 10-year-old girl who had to go home at 5 o'clock to fix supper for her 22-year-old husband!

Furthermore, in 1876, my mother's sister married at 13. I also had a cousin who married a 14-year-old girl when he was 15. Another cousin became a grandfather at the age of 32!

So, my Dear Abby, you'd better write Mr. Rosenberg another letter.

EL PASO

DEAR ABBY: You asked to hear from senior citizens: Would that some compassionate, benevolent God would take this body and accept the soul of man on the day he voluntarily retires or is arbitrarily retired from his work, and soon becomes . . .

The Greencastle-Putnam County Library received this week three copies of "A House on Liberty Street" by Mary Hays Weik. This book is of special interest because it is set in Civil War Greencastle, according to the librarians.

Miss Weik is the daughter of Jesse Weik, who in 1910 wrote "Weik's History of Putnam County, Indiana," a much used volume in the local history collection at the library.

In "A House on Liberty Street," Miss Weik tells the story of her grandfather's coming from Germany to Greencastle, by way of Cincinnati. Greencastle is called "Nobletown" in the story, but the house on Liberty Street is the one in which she grew up, on Indiana and Liberty Street, the librarian noted.

Miss Weik is a woman who looks forward as well as backward. In the current issue of "Ms." magazine, she is paid tribute in the "Found Women" feature for her decade of work to end the worldwide problem of atomic pollution.

In other library news, it was reported that Putnam county was represented last week-end at the Small Libraries Workshop in Bloomington. This annual workshop is co-sponsored by the Indiana University Graduate School and the Small Libraries Division of the Indiana Library Association. The subject of lectures, discussion groups, and mealtime "shop talk" this year was the building of local history collections in small public libraries. A state-wide meeting will be held in Evansville on October 18-20 for further up-dating.

The librarians would also like to remind the public that the Library has a phonograph record collection which may be borrowed just as you would a book.

A random list of albums includes: Jim Reeves, "Distant Drums" Leonard Bernstein and Julliard String Quartet, "Schumann Piano Quartet in E-Flat Major" Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra, "Sleeping Beauty and Romeo and Juliet Ballet Suites" Chet Atkins, "Music from Nashville" Perry Como with the Anita Kerr Quartet, "The Scene Changes".

Both vehicles were heading north on Bloomington when the Peck auto stopped to turn left onto Hanna. The Kerber auto failed to stop and struck the Peck auto in the rear end. Damages were estimated at $650 to the Peck auto and $900 to the Kerber auto. There were no arrests and no citations were issued. Peck complained of neck pains.

IBM

President and Chief Scientist Emanuel R. Piore believes that metrication may come relatively painlessly to IBM. He said, "We cannot legislate it to start overnight. That would be as disruptive as Prohibition. But if we replace old machines and other equipment with new metric ones and let inches and pounds die a natural death, we'll convert to metric almost without realizing it."

Bomb Explodes In Mid-Manhattan Office Of ITT

NEW YORK (AP)—A bomb blasted out windows, splintered furniture and crumpled metal air ducts yesterday in the mid-Manhattan offices of the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.'s Latin-American division.

No one was injured in the explosion at about 2:40 a.m., but a lobby security guard nine floors beneath the blast said, "You got the vibration all the way down here."

An anonymous caller to the New York Post said the "Weather underground" was responsible. A revolutionary offshoot of Students for a Democratic Society, the Weathermen has been dormant since a series of explosions three years ago. Police said a cell still exists here.

An ITT spokesman said there was no evidence linking the blast to Friday's explosion of a small bomb outside the office of ITT Standard S.A. in Rome. The Rome unit is the Italian subsidiary of the multinational conglomerate, which posted $8.556 billion in gross revenues last year.

Another official declined to comment on any possible connection between the explosions and events in Chile.

The explosions came 2½ weeks after the death in a military coup of Marxist President Salvador Allende in Chile. His government had taken over operation of ITT's telephone system there. Last February, ITT

Last Night's Football Results

Greencastle Wins Fifth

Greencastle came back from a 13-7 deficit in the first half to win an evenly matched football game from the Plainfield Quakers last night in overtime, 19-13.

The Tiger Cubs opened up the scoring attack when senior halfback Kim Jones raced 66 yards with 8:43 remaining in the first quarter. Harry Morrison added the extra point to give Greencastle a short lived 7-0 lead.

The Quakers opened up the attack at the 3:58 mark of the first quarter when Robert Danielson plunged over from the 2. Mark Rhoades added the extra point.

Kevin Day in the second quarter caught a 23 yard pass play from Quaker quarterback Manuel Gentry to wrap up first half scoring and Plainfield's overall attack.

Plainfield's explosive run and shoot offensive attack seemed to bother the Tiger Cubs until the second half when Junior Stacey Spencer ran over from the 7 at the 7:07 mark of the third quarter.

Eagles Stymied, 40-0

Winless South Putnam lost at Turkey Run, 40-0, its fifth defeat.

Turkey Run romped to a 34-0 halftime advantage but the Eagles displayed an excellent defensive effort, allowing only one TD in the final 24 minutes.

South Putnam will try to snap its 5-game losing streak when it hosts North Putnam next Friday.

Clovers Stopped, 22-12

Visiting Owen Valley defeated Cloverdale, 22-12, taking advantage of several early game Cloverdale mistakes.

Three touchdowns were scored in the final minute of the first half, including all of the Cloverdale scoring.

Cloverdale scored on a 7-yard pass from Quarterback Rick Anderson to Jim Gerlach at 0:52.

Owen Valley returned the kickoff to the Clovers 2-yard line and score with 40 seconds remaining.

Cloverdale scored its second TD on a 50-yard pass from Anderson to big Bill Walton at 0:14 remaining.

Cloverdale, now 1-4, plays its homecoming game next Friday against Edgewood.

Cougars Stopped, 13-12

North Putnam lost a squeaker to Southmont last night, 13-12, in the Cougars best effort on the season.

Southmont jumped off to a quick 13-0 lead in the first quarter. Their first touchdown came on a 7-yard pass play from Barker to Davidson with the extra point attempt by Serface good. Then, from the 4-yard line, Meyers ran the ball in to account for all of Southmont's points.

Terry Tippin, who, according to coach Bill Bays, played an outstanding game on defense, recovered a second quarter fumble and ran the ball back 45 yards. Four plays later on a 37-yard pass play from Steve Bullerick to Harold Roe, the Cougars put up their first six points.

Third quarter action saw Bullerick connect on an eight-yard pass play to Doug Perry to wind up their scoring attack.

The Cougars played an exceptionally good defensive game.

End Of The Season Tie In NL East?

It's not "54-40 Or Fight" in the National League East, or, East, but it could be "80-82 And Fight."

The 54-40 or fight slogan comes from the 19th Century when the United States was squabbling over the Oregon Territory.

The 80-82 and fight could be the cry in the NL East—known in some circles as the NL East—on Monday if the five contenders—New York, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Montreal and Chicago—wind up in an unprecedented tie for first place.

The only team in the NL East that can't win or tie is Philadelphia—and the Phillies may have a lot to say about the race anyway, just as they did Thursday night in defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 in 13 innings.

The loss dropped Pittsburgh a full game behind the idle New York Mets. The St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs 2-0.

Chicago's loss means the Cubs can not win outright, but they can still tie. The Montreal Expos, also idle, can't win either, but they, too, can still tie.

The five teams could conceivably all wind up with identical 80-82 records.

NL President Chub Feeney planned today to contact the five teams and arrange for coin flips to determine the playoffs in the event of a five-way deadlock.

Here are all the IFs necessary for a five-way tie:

1. The Cubs would have to win their four remaining games, all with the Mets. That would give both Chicago and New York 80-82 records.

2. The Expos must beat the Pirates in their three remaining games. That would give Montreal an 80-82 mark. Then the Pirates would have to play that makeup game with San Diego on Monday—and win for 80-82.

3. And the Cardinals would have to win two of their three games at Philadelphia for an 80-82 showing.

Then there are myriad possibilities for a four-way tie, and even more for a three-team deadlock, and so on.

But the lowly San Diego

Padres, who may or may not move to Washington next year, could have the final say in the NL East... if they have to play that makeup game with the Pirates in Pittsburgh on Monday.

Who said baseball wasn't exciting?

Greencastle Harriers Win

Greencastle's Cross Country finished a long and rather tiresome week with a victory over Cloverdale yesterday, 25-31.

The harriers had four meets last week of which they split even, winning two and losing the remainder.

"If I had to do all over again I'd do it another way, Coach Kevin Vana said following the win. "I'd prefer to run bigger meets and less of them, but sometimes the schedule is hard."

Jay Franklin, Greencastle's number one man, beat Cloverdale's number one man, Jack Galloway, by 17 seconds which really pleased Vana.

"He outkicked him in the last 400 yards," Vana said.

"The boys appeared tired before the meet, but they took off running and I'd say they probably beat Cloverdale in the first mile where we kind of demoralized them," Vana said.

DePauw Hosts 7 Schools In Annual Medley Event

Squads from seven colleges and universities arrived in Greencastle today to compete in DePauw University's unique medley cross country meet.

Scheduled to run in the multi-distance meet at 11 a.m. at Windy Hill were teams from Centre College, Rose-Hulman, Northwood Institute, Valparaiso, Washburn, Indiana Central, and DePauw.

In the medley conceived by DePauw cross country coach Bob Harvey all runners start together but finish at three mile, four mile and five mile distances.

Three men from each school will run each distance. Two will figure in the scoring and the third man will be a displacer. Orthodox cross country scoring will be used with the total for the three races constituting the team score. A perfect score for the winning team thus would be first and second at each distance for a total of nine points.

Doug Rudd, DePauw sophomore this year, won the three mile last year. Indiana Central's Rick Stover and Gary Romesser were winners at the four and five mile finish lines.

Indiana Central is the defending champion, having won the inaugural meet last season by beating Hope and DePauw in a tight race.

| IGNITION TUNE-UP INSTALLATION INSTRUCTIONS1. Remove distributor cap without disconnecting wires. Inspect closely for cracks. Cap can easily be replaced.2. Remove rotor, points and condenser. If rotor is worn, replace it. If points are adjusted, use a feeler gauge to adjust. Do not adjust condenser. Do not tighten adjusting screw. Do not use 5/16" cap screws.3. Adjust gap setting, which is amount of opening between points. Contacts when fully open. When installing points, note that there are several screws, one or two that hold down the points, and one that adjusts them. Turn adjusting screw to open or close points to recommended gap as found in Owners Manual usually about .018 to .024.4. Check spark plug wires to make sure none have come loose. Worn spark plug wires are hard to detect but can cause hard starting, rough idling, mis firing, and other problems. It is easy and inexpensive to replace wires, thus assuring peak performance. | 5. ## Here's the Answer

Q. — Please save me from the mess I went through a couple of years ago when I had to remove the wallpaper from our living room. This time I must take off the paper from our dining room walls, which are made of plaster. Can you tell me an easy way to remove wallpaper?

A. — No. There is no easy way. Occasionally, you begin the job and discover that the paper comes off easily, especially when it's the fabric type of wall covering that actually strips off. But most of the time it's a tedious task that requires wetting down the paper so that the water penetrates the outer surface, gets underneath and softens the paste that was used to hold the paper to the wall. Once the paste has been softened, a putty knife is inserted under a seam and carefully pushed along to separate the paper from the wall. Sometimes, while doing this, you are able to grab a piece of loose paper and pull off a big chunk. To facilitate the softening of the paste, mix the water with a wallpaper remover.

You can rent a steamer to loosen the paper, but several persons I know who have done this tell me it's even messier than removing the paper with water and remover. So, even though it might be more efficient, it's not for someone like you who considers the messiness intolerable.

Q. — I always read about turning off all the electricity in the house before replacing a light switch or doing any other electrical work. Yet the other day, when an electrician was doing some work in our house, he merely unscrewed the fuse of the circuit he was working on. The result was that we had the use of most of the electricity in the house except for a few lights and outlets. He said this was perfectly safe since, with the fuse disconnected, no electricity could pass through that circuit. Why, then, do all you writers tell us to turn off the electricity in the entire house, turning off electric clocks, refrigerators and other things that work by electricity?

A. — The odds are 100 to 1, maybe 1,000 to 1, that everything will work out properly if you merely remove the fuse or push the circuit breaker of the line you are working on. The issue is whether you want to risk your life against the one chance in 100 or 1000 that you might shut off the wrong circuit.

Q. — About a year or so ago, you mentioned something about a National Carvers Museum that was expected to be opened somewhere in Colorado. Since my hobby is woodcarving, I would like to visit the museum sometime in the future. Was it ever opened? And where is it located?

A. — Yes, it opened recently. A nonprofit foundation, the National Carvers Museum is located on an eight-acre site north of Colorado Springs directly adjacent to the United States Air Force Academy. It houses the work of more than 2,000 American artists and craftsmen. The address is 14960 Woodcarver Road, Monument, Colo., 80132, in case you want further information.

Q. — We have just moved into a house which has a furnace with a glass water gauge on the outside of it. The gauge appears to be about half filled with water. Is that correct? And how can I tell when the boiler requires more water?

A. — Most gauges have some kind of mark on the glass to indicate the proper level of water. It's usually about halfway up the glass or slightly higher. The level in your gauge is about right. During the heating season, keep an eye on the gauge. If the water drops below the halfway mark — and especially if it isn't visible at all — the boiler needs more water. Before refilling, turn off the heat for about an hour. When a boiler requires frequent refilling, it usually means that steam is escaping from one or more of the radiators, probably through a defective valve.

Q. — I bought an unfinished pine bookcase several years ago and never put any finish on it. I've now decided to varnish it. But the surface has become quite dirty and I am wondering the best way to clean it before going ahead with the finish. Also, can I use a semi-gloss varnish on it?

A. — Yes, you can use any kind of varnish on the bookcase. As for cleaning it, wipe it thoroughly with turpentine. If some dirt still remains in the pores of the wood, sand it out.

The Church: Saints, Sinners, Or Hypocrites?

by Rev. Edward Curtice
Cloverdale United Methodist Church

One person says: "I don't go to church because it is full of hypocrites." He seems to be saying those who go to church and don't live up to what they claim to be are worse than those who don't go to church and yet don't live up to their beliefs either. He doesn't quit associating with those people does he!

Or another person may say: "If I went to church, I would be afraid that the walls would cave in." Or not because he is such a bad person, but because he really doesn't believe. And if he were to go, God might punish him because he would be playing acting or hypocritical.

The word "hypocrite" means to be a play actor. One of the early Greek actors was a man named Hypocritus. He would play the parts of many different people in the same evening. For each different part he played he would put on a new mask or "false face" signifying the part he was acting.

Jesus warned against this evil type of hypocrisy, of pretending to be what one knows he is not. This is especially dangerous if it is done by a religious person. A Pharisee or local religious leader who just pretends to be religious leads others who are trying to be sincere down the wrong path.

Jesus hated nothing more than hypocrisy for several reasons: First of all, it made fellowship with another almost impossible. Truth is one genuine prerequisite for Christian community. If a man or woman couldn't trust the person whom he had contact, it would be very difficult for real fellowship or friendship to exist. Secondly, the people who listen to the hypocrite may begin to lose their own faith.

Thirdly, hypocrisy may fill and finally kill that own person's sensitivity to the presence of God in his own life.

And finally, it made it impossible for forgiveness if a person won't repent. And without repentance there can be no forgiveness.

Jesus felt the people who were the most susceptible to hypocrisy were those who had an appearance to keep up. Those who don't want others to know what he is really like. So they go about deceiving themselves first so they can deceive others. They do this so well that many times they do not even realize that they are being deceptive or hypocritical.

Yet, the play actor must eventually face reality. Eventually he must stand alone before God's judgement seat. On that day nothing will be covered up that will not be revealed. In that moment all illusion will be stripped away and only the truth will abide. If we have lived deceptively, that will be a terrible day and we should fear God. If we have been honest, it will be a happy day where we will know God as love.

One of the churches I served a few years ago had the practice of giving Bibles to children when they entered the third grade. One of the children was not there the day the Bibles were given out, so I took it to her home. Her father was home and we had a chance to talk for a while. I asked him what his feelings were toward the church and challenged him to live up to the vows he took when he became a member. "If you don't, in three years we can remove your name from our rolls," I told him.

He told me: "You can remove my name if you like. I'll just go join the Baptist church down the block."

What he was saying was this: "I just want a church affiliation so when my name appears in the paper or I get some award or if I run for political office, it looks like I am a decent, good man." He was playing acting at being a Christian.

Many young people would say today: "The church is full of those who just want their name on the rolls. I'm not going to be a part of those who play games, thereby deceiving themselves and me."

Paul didn't believe the church was made up of hypocrites. Instead, he called them "saints!" What did he mean by that? He was referring to all those who loved Christ and who were trying to live a Christ-like life.

Therefore, all who were trying to live so would be considered saints in Paul's eyes.

So often when we hear the term "saints" we think of The Roman Catholic Church which makes a person a saint after he has died. But that is not how Paul meant it. We can see this from the letter of Paul's we read this morning.

Paul starts out the letter by telling these Christians how glad he is God's grace has been given them so that they believe in Jesus Christ. How glad he is that they have been given all the spiritual gifts through God's doing. "What saints you now are!"

But all of a sudden he changes his tone and contradicts himself by admonishing these people. "The church is supposed to be a place of unity and love and here you are arguing and quarreling; you sinners!"

These Christians had divided themselves into various groups over the personalities of the evangelists who had come to Corinth. The first group was probably composed of those who had been converted under Paul's preaching during his residence in the seaport, and in this mistaken way they were showing their loyalty to him.

Others grouped themselves around Apollos, the eloquent and intellectual Alexandrian preacher, who had succeeded Paul in the work at Corinth.

Then there were those who claimed Peter as their personal teacher. He had probably visited some of the churches while on his way to Rome and had impressed the people by his being the leader of the original band of disciples. His influence was probably greatest with the Jewish Christians while Paul was a favorite of the Gentiles.

Finally, the fourth group that subconsciously felt a spiritual superiority to the other three and in effect said, "A plague on all your parties--We belong to Christ."

What concerned Paul most was not the different badges these groups wore. He was troubled more by the bad spirit that was corrupting the life and witness of the church and hence threatening its unity. For the unity of the church was of supreme importance to him and he could not endure to see it undermined by a spirit of embittered faction. It was hard for Paul to believe that such a great institution could be endangered by such littleness of men. (Paul would share that same message today with any church who became like that Corinthian church.)

Yes, these men who were saints were also sinners too. They were never to the point of achieving perfection. The early disciples were also in the same category, but Jesus still delegated them the task of carrying on the work of his body--the church.

Therefore, the church is a place for sinners; those who are in need of the saving power of Jesus Christ. The scriptures say "All have sinned and fallen short of the glory of God." They realize that they are not perfect but they are trying to be better people and feel that by uniting and being a part of other people who are trying to be Christian, that they will have a better chance of leading a good moral life. (Or at least they would have a better chance than those who were dealing underhandedly and unfairly with others.)

The church is not a place for well people but for the sick. So often though we give people the other impression. We put on airs that we are upright people. We hide from people where we may be having difficulty leading a Christian life. So when they see us fail, they naturally think that we are hypocrites. But can we blame them?

Those of us in the church need to be sharing with each other in small groups, in Sunday School classes, whatever, concerning our struggles with living the Christian faith as well as the difficulty we have with accepting some of the church's beliefs. And when that happens and a person is accepted for what he is, then we have the redemptive fellowship where change and growth is possible. And that is what the church is all about!

I know that I am not perfect in my life as a Christian. All you have to do is ask my wife and she will testify to that. Some days I get up on the wrong side of the bed. I may have a headache and feel miserable. When I feel like this, I don't love anyone; not even myself. On those days nobody had better get in my way, for I am short-tempered and make life miserable for those who try my patience.

Some days I feel good about my job and what I am doing is significant and important. And on other days I begin to doubt the value of what I am doing. Sometimes my faith in God is even questioned. But there is always enough hope and good experiences to keep me going.

Some young people say, "The church is full of hypocrites!" No, I would say that the church is full of saints--those people who are trying to live a Christian life. But because they are human, they are sinners and are going to fail. They will fall short. (That does not mean there are not some hypocrites in the church; there may be. But they are small in number.)

But through uniting with others who are trying, they will have a better chance to succeed than by remaining aloof. It will not happen by staying home on Sunday mornings.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Note the splendid psychology used by Rev. Williams and Rev. Fugit. They employed what advertisers call sales "gimmicks." But so did Jesus! All successful clergymen are keen Applied Psychologists. Even "static" pastors become "dynamic" when they use psychology!

CASE Y-530: Walter W. Williams was the pastor of the church in the Indiana village near which we have our summer home.

Recently he added a splendid innovation for whetting the interest of the congregation. "At each service," he explained, "I let anybody (child or adult) from the audience bring up a brown paper grocery sack to me."

"It may contain a single item, such as a pencil, an ear of corn, etc."

"Then, as a prelude to my sermon, I open the sack in the sight of the entire congregation and lift out the hidden object."

"It is then up to me to try to make a relevant connection between the sack's contents and the Bible or moral precepts." Obviously, this adds an excellent innovation in the usual pulpit routine, for it permits some member of the audience to participate via putting something in the sack and bringing it up to the pastor.

Mrs. Crane and I were in the congregation one Sunday when Rev. Williams opened the sack. It contained merely a plastic drinking straw, such as found at soda fountains.

Rev. Williams eyed it for only a moment; then mentioned that the straw suggested a drink of a cold beverage.

That was his deft cue for reminding the audience that Jesus stopped at the well during his trip through Samaria.

And engaged the Samaritan woman in conversation, during which time she was converted and accepted the "living water" that Christ said he could offer mankind.

Rev. L. H. Fugit is another ingenious pastor at Vincennes, Indiana.

After he had invited me to fill his pulpit one Sunday, he placed me on the mailing list for his church Newsletter.

Therein I saw another splendid idea that all you clergymen can easily adapt to your own congregations.

It dealt with a "Birthday Banquet" in the church dining hall.

"There are 12 tables," said Rev. Fugit, "starting with January and continuing through the other 11 months in the year."

"We schedule a lady hostess for each table. She is to have had her birthday in the month indicated by her table."

"And we publicize this Birthday Banquet as a pot luck supper, to which all are invited."

GI Bill Advice Issued

G.I. Bill training is still available for some veterans who were discharged from military service as much as 12 years ago, but not for long.

The Veterans Administration today pointed out that Post-Korean veterans--those who were discharged between January 31, 1955, and June 1, 1966--have two more years to take flight training, farm or on-the-job training under the G.I. Bill. But their eligibility for other types of schools and colleges expires May 31, 1974.

In spite of the array of dates, the formula for computing an individual's eligibility is fairly simple, Admistrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson pointed out. The law gives each veteran eight years to use his G.I. Bill eligibility, and for most, this means until eight years after discharge.
